PLENTY OF POTATOES.

The Tubers Do Not Pay for the Digging.

Other Crops Are Not so Bounteous—Apples Injured by the Droughts of September.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Reports to the agricultural department show a decline in the condition of all the principal crops, except oats, rye and barley. The detailed summary, made public today, shows a widespread reduction in the condition of potatoes, due largely to drought. Complaints of potato rot come from the northern and more southern of the New England states, New York, several of the states adjoining the great lakes and Missouri and Kansas. The losses from leaf blight and insects appear to have been exceptionally light. The most serious complaint of the potato grower this year is the low price of the product, particularly in the northwest. The report from the department's agent for Wisconsin and Minnesota represents that in the latter state the tubers "do not pay for digging." He states that the yield is enormous.

Sweet Potatoes—Sweet potatoes have suffered quite seriously from lack of rain and their condition has been materially reduced in many states. In seven it has fallen from ten to twenty-two points.

Tobacco—The condition of tobacco declined over two points. In Ohio, where the condition is lowest, something over a half crop is expected, and the same may be said of Maryland and Virginia. The crops of Massachusetts and Connecticut are excellent. Conditions in New York, Pennsylvania and Kentucky approximate the average for the country. Drought and frosts of the last of September are the causes of lowered condition.

Rice—General average condition 9.3 a decline of 4 points, due principally to drought.

Hops—The product of hops is returned at 80 9 per cent. of a full crop. The quality is generally very good, except in Washington, where the louse and mold have done material damage.

Sugar Cane—There is a very general falling off in condition due to drought. The effect of the severe winter is seen in stubble cane fields. The prospective crop is much under that of 1894.

Sorghum—This crop seems to have suffered little, but in Virginia low conditions east of the Blue Ridge reduced the general average to 80.

Apples—The continued drought and the hot weather and high winds of September, causing premature ripening and dropping, have resulted in a loss of over two points in the average condition of apples. The greatest losses occurred in the central west, where the crop was abundant. It is thought both the eating and keeping quality of the fruit has been much impaired, and in many sections a tendency to rot is already noted. The average condition now stands at 70 6.

The general conviction in the British cereal trade that the wheat harvest of the world for 1895 is about 100,000,000 bushels less than that of 1894 is announced in the report of the European agent of the agricultural department for October. The report adds: "It is known, however, that a greatly reduced quantity is being fed to stock, leaving about the same quantity for human beings."

The estimates of this season's wheat crop in the united kingdom vary from twenty-three to twenty-seven bushels an acre. Both in Great Britain and on the continent the wheat was harvested in such favorable condition as to assure a high per centage of flour. Reports from other countries are:

France—The official estimates for 1895 are: Wheat, 337,500,000 bushels; rye and mazlin, 81,360,000 bushels; barley, 80,900,000 bushels; oats, 263,000,000 bushels.

All fodder crops are suffering from protracted drought.

Germany—The wheat crop is estimated at 104,000,000 bushels; a reduction from last year of nearly 7,000,000. The potato crop is believed to be over the average. As England has nearly an average crop of very high quality the market there is glutted and prices are as low as $10 a ton. These conditions are worth noting, in view of our large crop this year. It is unlikely that we shall be able to dispose of any of our surplus in Europe.

Italy—The wheat crop is officially estimated at 130,200,000 bushels, against 118,400,000 bushels last year. The barley crop is officially estimated at 7,000,000 bushels. That of last year, an unusually heavy crop, measured 8,000,000 bushels. A poor medium corn crop is expected.

Spain—The wheat crop is officially reported at 92,000,000 bushels, against 105,600,000 bushels last year. It is not a prime crop.

Bulgaria—The continued and persistent drought is reported to have done great injury to the corn crop, which in some districts is said to have been totally destroyed.

Hungary—Corn crop irregular, but satisfactory.

Roumania—The wheat crop is exceptionally abundant.

Greece—The wheat crop is unexpectedly short. A decrease of 30 per cent. is expected.

Russia—An average wheat crop is expected. The rye crop is fine and heavy.

Strong Drink Causes Suicide.

Wabash, Ind, Oct 14—Warren Smith, son of Dr. A J. Smith, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, shot himself with suicidal intent last night, and now lies at the point of death, with no hope of recovery. The wound was inflicted in the head with a revolver during a period of mental depression resulting from overindulgence in drink. Smith is thirty-seven years of age and has a fine reputation as an artist. He will not survive the night.

A CHICAGO MYSTERY.

Mrs. Annie Walker Mysteriously Wounded on a Train.

Is Lying in a Boarding House, Where She Was Taken by a Man Named Elliott.

Chicago, Oct 14.—Mrs. Annie Walker was still unconscious this afternoon at the boarding house of Mrs. Tracey, where she was taken last Thursday morning by a man named Elliott. Her ailment is puzzling the physicians who are attending her and they are unable to determine as to whether she is suffering from the effect of some drug or from a blow. Mrs. Walker was brought to Mrs. Tracey's home at 9 o'clock Thursday morning in a carriage. She was unconscious and was carried into the room by a man named Elliott who is said has been an attendant in an insane asylum in Canada for fifteen years. Since then he has not been seen or heard from. Chief of Police Badenoch appeared at the Tracy house today and inquired into all of the particulars regarding the unconscious woman. He said her friends in Guelph, Canada, had been communicated with and that he had received a telegram from a sister stating that Mrs. Walker was insane. He also learned that she was unconscious when she left the train Thursday morning. The police are looking for Elliott.

DEADLY TRICHINÆ.

They Infest the Ham Served at a Wedding Feast.

Seven of the Guests Who Partook of a Certain Ham Die in Terrible Agony.

Chicago, Oct 14.—It was announced today that it has been determined upon the strictest medical authority that seven of the victims of the Saboul, Iowa, poisoning horror died and some are still suffering from the deadly trichinæ infection. Dr. E R LeCount, of Rush Medical college, has prepared specimens from the portion of the intestines sent to Prof. Haines, of Rush Medical college, for examination and has made a careful diagnosis of the causes which led to the seven deaths of the guests at the wedding of John W. Taplin and Anna Gage, September 11. Dr. LeCount's decision in the matter as to the cause of the deaths and infection, which was at first thought to be a wholesale poisoning, settles beyond a doubt that the ham, hastily cooked for the wedding supper, caused all the suffering.

A LONG DROUGHT.

Pittsburg Suffers for Want of Rain.

The Monongahela River Lower Than Ever Before and the Industrial Establishments Short of Power.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 14—The long drought in this section continues. There was some rain on Saturday, but it was so light that it gave no relief. The present extremely low water in the river is causing a vast amount of damage to the industrial establishments the Monongahela river. At the Edgar Thomson steel works, at Braddock, the Carnegie Steel company has been damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars in a peculiar manner. The same condition prevails at the Homestead, Southside and Middlepoint plants. The chemists at the Edgar Thomson plant on Saturday analyzed the water of the river. They found fifteen grains of sulphuric acid in a gallon of water. Turtle creek was also analyzed and found to contain three times as much, or enough, to kill any animal that drinks it. The steel companies, to prevent corrosion of the boilers this week, began to put soda in the reservoir and pipes. This neutralizes the acid but has a tendency to clog up the pipes, flues, etc. The Monongahela water is used by all the people of the large boroughs up the valley, and serious results are feared.

Liquor Dealers Meet.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The annual convention of the National Retail Liquor Dealers' association of the United States began here today. About twenty-eight states are represented by delegates. The proceedings today were confined to a social visit to Cabin John's bridge a few miles beyond the city. The business sessions will begin tomorrow morning.

LOW PRICES

Cause Northwestern Farmers to Hold Their Wheat Back,

And Market Their Coarse Grain Instead—Wheat Receipts Below That of Last Year.

Duluth, Minn, Oct 14—There is no doubt that northwestern farmers are holding back their wheat on account of the low prices prevailing and marketing their coarse grain instead. For several days past the receipts of wheat in this market have fallen below those of last year. Receivers say that offerings are daily growing lighter, and daily sales here support the statement. On the other hand there has been a more than corresponding increase in coarse grains, though of of course the daily reports of car inspection do not show as large a total for all grain receipts. During the first eleven days of the month, the receipts of flax were equal to nearly two-thirds the total amount received during the full month of September. The quantity received during September was 816,662 bushels, which was more than came here during the entire last crop year, while for the first eleven days of October the receipts were 527,872 The same proportion prevails with regard to all coarse grains except rye. The receipts of oats for eleven days of October have been 56 699 bushels as compared with 81,215 bushels during the entire month of September. Barley receipts during October thus far have been 356 253 bushels, while the total for the month of September was only 510,777 bushels Of course it is not reasonable to fear that the wheat movement will continue relatively small for any length of time. Farmers who are averse to selling their wheat for ruling price and have coarse grain to sell, will send the latter to market now and hold the wheat for the reason that the coarse grains command relatively much higher values in this market than wheat. There is the further reason that flax cannot be held in the stack as wheat can with safety from damage by the elements. Grain men believe that the heavy movement of coarse grains will be practically over before the fifteenth of next month, and the early closing of navigation is likely to spur shippers on to make inducements for a larger movement of wheat during the first half of November if the market should demand it, which is entirely likely.

NO CRIME INTENDED,

And the Morris Park Races Will be Permitted.

Judge Ingraham Settles the Matter by Legal Process in a Test Case for That Purpose.

New York, Oct. 14—Judge Ingraham, in oyer and terminer, today declared that no crime was contemplated by the Morris Park races, which open tomorrow. The matter was brought up as a test case, which was agreed to on Saturday in a conference between the police commissioners, the district attorney and the State Racing and the West Chester Racing associations. District Attorney Fellows had advised the police commissioners that in his opinion the racing at Morris park would not be illegal or at least that no arrests should be made before a hearing on the subject had been had from a higher court than had heretofore decided upon it. This was in view of the fact that Judge Bischoff, in this city, and Judge Gaynor, in Brooklyn, had rendered opposing opinions on the constitutionality of the Perry-Gray racing law.

GEMS WORTH $7,000 STOLEN.

Mrs. Peter McCourt, a Bride, Mourns the Loss of Her Diamonds.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 14—Mrs Peter McCourt is deploring the loss of $7,000 worth of diamonds, including many of her most valuable wedding presents. Since returning from their honeymoon trip that followed the wedding at Springfield, Mo, Mr. and Mrs. McCourt have been stopping at the Albany hotel. Last week they engaged quarters in a fashionable district at Sixteenth and Humboldt streets, and Saturday took possession. The family had become comfortably installed in their new residence when they sat down to dinner at 6 o'clock. On returning to their room Mrs. McCourt found the gems were gone. They had been taken from a dresser case.

Four Deaths.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 14.—O J Baldwin, of Youngsville, Pa, a victim of last nights west end trolley car accident, died at the homeopathic hospital at 4 o'clock this morning. This makes four deaths so far and several others are in a critical condition. The accident was caused by a brake chain and the fact that the trolley left the wire. The motorman attempted to stop the runaway car by reversing the current, but there was no current. The conductor and motorman both went down with the passengers and were badly injured.

Fatally Injured.

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—A. Page Brown, one of the leading architects of the Pacific coast, is not expected to live as the result of injuries received in a runaway accident last week. Mr. Brown was driving an ex hurdle racer called the Nipper, on a country road. when the animal ran away and plunged down a steep bank. Mr. Brown had both legs, one arm, his collar bone and three ribs broken. His face was frightfully gashed and his skull fractured. It is not known whether there are any internal injuries, but his friends fear he cannot survive his terrible external wounds

IN SESSION AGAIN.

Supreme Court Resumes Business After Long Idleness.

Attorney General Harmon is Introduced by His Predecessor, Secretary Olney.

Washington, Oct. 14—After a recess covering about four and a half months, the United States supreme court reconvened at noon today, with all the members of the court present. The only vacant seat on the bench was that caused by the death of Justice Jackson. The proceedings of the day were brief, consisting only of the hearing of unimportant motions, the admission of a half dozen attorneys to the bar and the introduction of Attorney General Harmon to the court by his predecessor, Secretary Olney. Chief Justice Fuller announced the death of Justices Jackson and Strong, the latter retired, simply saying that the court was saddened by these events. The chief justice also referred to the custom on the part of the court of making a formal call upon the president at the beginning of the term, but said the call would be foregone on account of the absence of the chief exective from the city. Acknowledging the introduction of the new attorney general as made by Secretary Olney, Chief Justice Fuller said: "The court parts with the retiring attorney general with regret and welcomes his successor." A number of cases were dismissed either by stipulation or on motion of appelants and plaintiffs in error. The court then adjourned until tomorrow when it will meet to hear motions already assigned for that day.

GIVE WORSHIP TO GOD.

Sermon by Rev. Father Delaney at St. Patrick's Church.

At high mass at St Patrick's Catholic church yesterday morning the sermon was preached by Rev. Father J. F. Delaney, who took for his text the kingdom that was established by God Himself. The central thought in the discourse was the fact that there are people who are so engrossed with the affairs of the world that they cannot spare a moment for the worship of Almighty God, even on Sunday.

Father Delaney said that God breathed into space and the earth was formed with all its beauty and splendor. Then He made man and imprinted His own image upon the soul of man that he might be as beautiful as God Himself. But the power of sin took hold of man and he fell History tells us that during the next four thousand years, from the time of man's fall in the Garden of Paradise to the time when Jesus Christ came upon earth to establish God's kingdom, the church, none of man's undertakings were successful, because God was not with them.

Kingdoms and empires rose, tottered and fell and evil held sway over all. The power of Satan was supreme. God resolved then to send upon earth a Redeemer who should be human in form but Divine in being. Men's hearts could be reached in no other way. Jesus Christ, God's only begotten son, came upon earth and gave up His life that mankind might be redeemed from sin. Thus God's kingdom, the church, was established, and the title deeds to that kingdom were written with the blood of Christ; and this kingdom has been maintained through all these nineteen hundred years by suffering, by agony and by blood. Martyrs have given up their lives and confessors have suffered and endured untold agony for the kingdom of God. Yet, there are people everywhere who now have no time to worship God who has maintained and built up His kingdom on earth for their benefit. They are too busy with the affairs of life to take time to thank God that the world is not now the sinful world that it once was. The census tells us that in our own country there are thirty millions of people who are members of no church, who have no religion, who are strangers to Almighty God. Thirty millions of people who have not the happiness of faith. There is no other blessing so great as the blessing of faith. The world may furnish that which will amuse, that which will exhiliarate and momentarily satisfy the desires of man, but the blessing of a profound faith is the one infinite blessing because it springs from God Himself. My dear Christian people, lay aside your earthly joys for a time. Meditate for one hour and you will find your conscience rebelling against your ways. You will then realize the happiness of faith and more fully appreciate the kingdom which God has established here upon earth for you and all mankind.

Assaulted His Father-in-Law.

Eagle, Ind., Oct. 14.—Calvin McGill, a respected farmer, aged seventy-one years, living one mile from this place, was assaulted while at the breakfast table yesterday morning by his son-in-law, Austin Everhart, and dangerously injured. Everhart struck Mr. McGill with a castor and then with a chair. The old man's life is despaired of. The crime was the outgrowth of previous trouble.

Drowned.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 14—Captain James Ward, owner of the schooner Virginia, whose brother resides at 427 Oak street, Chicago, was found drowned in the Mississippi at the head of Olive street yesterday evening.

TONS OF MOLTEN LEAD

Poured on a Score of Men While at Work.

Terrible Accident in a Pittsburg Mill—Ten Men Terribly Burned, Some Fatally.

Pittsburg, Pa, Oct. 14.—Two converters at the Frankstown mill of Jones & Laughlin's overturned at 3:40 o'clock this morning and sixteen tons of molten metal poured into the pit below, where a score or more men were at work. One man was fatally burned, three dangerously and four others sustained serious injuries.

The names are: Squire Watson, widower, terribly burned about the head and body, will die, John B Burr, Wm. Edwards, Chas Freeborn, Wm C. Faulkner, Thomas W. Faulkner, Frank Kerling, Samuel Lowe.

The injured were removed to a hospital where everything possible was done to alleviate their suffering The physicians say Watson will die, and that the chances of recovery are against Burr, Edwards and Freeborn.

The burns of the others are painful but not dangerous. The responsibility for the accident has not yet been placed, but it is believed to have been unavoidable. The damage to the mill was not very heavy.

The accident occurred while the men were in the act of raising converter No. 1, which contained over eight tons of molten metal. It is raised by compressed air power. Samuel Love and John Tunney were working at it, and before they got it raised the men working at converter No. 2 started to raise it also. The metal ran out of converter No. 1, and the men became so excited over the possibility of an explosion that they let go of the compressed air machinery and allowed the converter to drop. They came down with a crash and threw the metal in every direction and enveloped nearly all the men employed in that portion of the mill.

WITH SOFT GLOVES.

Corbett and Fitz to Box a Limited Number of Rounds.

Hot Springs, Ark., Oct. 14.—The big fight will take place at Hot Springs October 31. Under a new arrangement of the articles of agreement of the Florida Athletic association the bout between Corbett and Fitzsimmons is assured. There will be no violation of the law and no interference on the part of the authorities is expected. The latter have taken a very decided stand from the beginning on the side of law, and will permit the contest only upon satisfactory assurance that there will be no infringement of the statutes

In order to comply with the laws of Arkansas the articles of agreement have been changed from a finish contest to a limited number of rounds, the referee being vested with full power to stop the contest whenever, in his opinion, it becomes brutal. The contestants are to box with soft gloves The citizens of Hot Springs are deeply interested in the event and the club officials are satisfied that they are complying strictly with the law. The best legal talent in the city has been consulted and fully agrees that it will be complied with in spirit and in letter.

ONLY IN IMAGINATION.

Big Antrim Estate a Myth Created by Unscrupulous Lawyers.

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 14—The Antrim heirs of Indiana, who have hired attorneys to go to Ireland to lay claim to the great estate said to be held in chancery, have received a letter from an English solicitor saying that for a few shillings it can be ascertained that there never was £15,000,000 at any time in the Antrim family or one one-hundredth part of that sum. He says a set of lawyers have been practicing the dodge of making Americans believe they have large estates awaiting them to such an extent that the English government now requires a report every three years setting forth all the funds in chancery amounting to more than $250. The last report showed that there were two estates now on hand amounting to more than $75 000 and neither of these has anything to do with the Antrim estate.

SALOONS OBSERVE THE LAW.

New Administration in Indianapolis Sees a Quiet Sunday.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 14.—Considerable interest was manifested yesterday in the attitude that the saloonkeepers would sustain toward the law, owing to the fact that this was the initial Sunday of the new administration. Under the orders of the board of public safety the police were as vigilant as at any time during the last two years, and no trouble whatever was reported. The saloons were closed and no violation or attempts at violation of the law occurred.

NO SUNDAY SHOW.

Minstrel Cleveland Arrested for Breaking the Law.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct 14—The entertainment of W S. Cleveland's minstrels at the Grand Opera house was brought to a sudden termination last evening by the arrest of Mr. Cleveland for violating the Sunday law This was the first attempt to give Sunday theatricals here for two years.

START ALL THE FACTORIES.

Plate Glass Trust Orders Idle Plants to Resume Operations.

Kokomo, Ind, Oct. 14—Superintendent Elliott, of the plate glass factory here, has been ordered east by the trust, to start the idle plants at Charleroi and Duquesne, Pa. All the plate glass factories in the United States then will be in operation.

FATALLY SHOT.

Frightful Accident That Happened to Otto Meyer.

Tried to Knock an Apple With His Gun and Receives a Load of Shot in His Abdomen.

As the result of the accidental discharge of a shotgun Sunday, Otto Meyer, of No. 519 East Lewis street, is likely to lose his life.

Meyer and Harry Byerly went into the country Sunday morning for a hunt. While they were passing through an orchard about three miles north of Maples, and thirteen miles from this city, Meyer saw an apple on a limb that he wanted. He was carrying his shotgun over his shoulder, with the muzzle in front. He reached up to knock the apple with the butt end of the gun, and in doing so the hammer encountered a limb and one barrel of the gun was discharged

The load of No. 6 shot entered his abdomen and so frightfully wounded him that there are no hopes for his recovery.

Dr. McCausland, of this city, and Dr. Myers, of Maples, attended him. The wounded man is nineteen years of age and the main support of his widowed mother. He has been employed by the Fort Wayne Furniture company. After his injury he was taken to the house on the farm upon which it occurred, where he will be cared for until this evening, when, if he can withstand the hardships of the trip, he will be brought to the city.

Meyer is also a nephew of Otto Herbst, of the Hamilton National bank.

INTO A CAR.

Racers on Wells Street Strike a Circumstance.

The Car Damaged But the Horse Escaped Injury—A Sprained Ankle—Thought He Was Shot.

A street car on Wells street Saturday night encountered an accident that sent it to the shops for repairs. Two fellows driving single rigs, were racing on the street and driving toward the car. One was on the track, and although the motorman stopped the car the foolhardy driver kept on coming and ran into the front. The horse struck the car with such terrific force that it bent the heavy iron dash on the platform double. So far as known, neither the horse, buggy or driver were injured. The driver was not known.

SPRAINED ANKLE.

Mrs. S. T. Hanna is suffering from a sprained ankle, the result of a slip of her foot as she was descending a stairway.

THOUGHT HE WAS SHOT.

Charles Wybourn, of New Haven, was in the city Saturday. A pistol in his pocket was accidentally discharged and the young man screamed and yelled, believing he was shot. Dr. Schrader was called to attend him and found that he wasn't injured at all. He was simply scared.

MRS. L. R. HARTMAN

Re-elected Conference Secretary of the Women's Missionary Society.

At the general conference of the officers and secretaries of the northwestern branch of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church, which was held last week at Eau Claire, Wis., Mrs. L. R. Hartman, of this city, was re-elected secretary of the North Indiana conference. Mrs. Hartman has filled this office acceptably during the last term and her re-election to it was a deserved compliment. Her duties will require her to make occasional trips over this conference to look after the affairs of the societies in the different cities and towns. She leaves tomorrow morning for McCordville and Elwood and will visit other towns, returning home Saturday. At each of these places district meetings will be held. On Thursday and Friday of next week a district meeting will be held in this city and lady speakers of prominence will be in attendance.

BANK FAILURE.

The State Bank of Fort Scott Closes Its Doors.

Fort Scott, Kas., Oct. 14—A sensation was created today when Vice President J. J. Stewart, of the State bank, of this city, posted the following notice at the opening hour:

"This bank is closed, subject to the order of the state bank commissioner. Depositors will be paid in full. The failure to open is caused by the defalcation of the cashier. [Signed] J. J. Stewart, vice-president."

A large crowd of excited depositors gathered around the bank door and discussed the situation. The cashier, J. R. Colean, has had the utmost confidence of all. He has been cashier since the bank was organized in 1883. Last Wednesday he left town, telling a reporter he was going to his old home in Jerseyville, Ill, where his wife is visiting.

FAILURE AT ALTOONA.

Frank M. Morrow Fails to Meet His Bills.

Hollidaysburg, Pa, Oct. 14.—Executions amounting to $35,000 were issued here this morning by the H. B. Claflins company, of New York, and other creditors against Frank M. Morrow, the owner of a large merchandise store in Altoona.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Gosley, on Brackenridge street—a girl.

ARE THEY MURDERERS?

Four Men Charged With Killing Postmaster Singer.

They Are James Cunningham, Charles Yetter, William Thompson and John Snurr—All in Jail.

It may be that the murder of George Singer, the aged postmaster at Dunfee, on the 16th day of September, will yet be cleared up and the murderers brought to justice.

Four men are now under arrest charged with the fearful crime. They are James Cunningham, Charles Yetter, William Thompson and John Snurr, all residents of Dunfee and vicinity.

It will be remembered by readers of The Sentinel that the murder of old man Singer was one of the most brutal that could possibly be conceived. Singer conducted a little store and was postmaster of Dunfee, a hamlet ten miles west of this city. On the morning mentioned above he was found murdered in bed in his room above the store, where he slept alone. During the night somebody had placed a ladder against the front of the building, climbed into the room through a window, robbed the old man, tied his hands and feet securely and then beat him to death with a hickory club that had been prepared for the purpose and which was found in bed with the corpse.

Of course, the murder created the most intense excitement in the neighborhood. A great crowd collected and each one had a suspicion to express as to who was the murderer.

A great many suspected Charles Yetter, a young man whose home is about three-quarters of a mile from Dunfee. Yetter had robbed Singer and the post office last winter and served six months in prison at Indianapolis for it He is said to have expressed his determination to get even with Singer for sending him up.

James Cunningham, a young man who lives directly across the street from Singer's store was also suspected Cunningham told a Sentinel reporter on the morning of the murder that he and Chancey Romick were the last persons in Singer's store the night before when the old man counted his money, $16, and retired. Cunningham was also the first person to enter the building and discover the dead body the next morning.

Thompson was suspected of being connected with the murder because of several circumstances that have not yet been explained away. Thompson has a wife and five children and is employed on the Nickel Plate section.

Snurr also works on the section and boards with Thompson. A revolver was found in Snurr's clothing which, if it proves to be the one stolen from Singer, will seriously connect him with the deed.

Since the time of the murder Cunningham has spent much time in this city. He has been lavish with his money in saloons and with disreputable women and has gambled. Steadily a web of evidence was woven around him until it was decided to place him under arrest.

Saturday Deputy Prosecutor I. W. Leonard, of Columbia City, came to Fort Wayne with a warrant, and at about 6 o'clock in the evening Police Capt. Borgman placed Cunningham under arrest in a saloon on Harrison street, and locked him up in the police station.

Later Saturday night Superintendent Liggett, Capt. Borgman, Sergeant Daseler, Officers Knock, Coling and Dixon drove to Dunfee and placed Yetter and Thompson under arrest, landing them in the police station at 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

Sunday morning officers went to Dunfee and arrested Snurr and brought him in.

It has been stated that Cunningham made a confession to Capt. Borgman Saturday night, but Cunningham denies this. He said Sunday that he had made a confession to nobody and that he had nothing to confess. Neither Capt. Borgman nor Deputy Prosecutor Leonard will affirm nor deny the report.

A party, who seems in a position to know, says that Cunningham made the confession to a dissolute companion who had been placed in contact with him by the police for the purpose of securing information.

The confession alleged to have been made by Cunningham to Captain Borgman, and which he absolutely denies, is about as follows That Cunningham, Yetter and Thompson did the deed, that Thompson held the ladder and the other two entered the room; that Yetter stumbled over a chair and woke Singer up, that they pounced upon him and bound and gagged him and secured $400, which was hidden in a trunk, that they were afraid he would tell on them and that they decided to kill him, that Cunningham pounded Singer to death with the hickory billet; that they then returned to their homes.

Cunningham was confined in the county jail while the other three were kept in the police station. Nobody has been permitted to talk with either of them. Sunday Cunningham's father was in the city but was denied the privilege of seeing his son.

It is the intention of the prosecutor to delay a preliminary hearing as long as possible for the purpose of obtaining all possible evidence The men will be tried at Columbia City, the murder having been committed just across the line in Whitley county.

It is said that the police will receive a reward of $250, which was offered by the people of Dunfee.

TOLL GATES COME DOWN

The Leo Gravel Road Purchased by the County,

And the Toll Gates Are Taken Down—News as Found in the Different Courts of the City.

The county commissioners this morning completed the purchase of the Leo gravel road, paying the company $7,585 for the seven miles of road owned by them. They gave county orders due in six and eighteen months, with 6 per cent. interest, and these were cashed at par by the Hamilton bank. Immediately upon the completion of the purchase the toll gates were taken down and the teams are now driving over the road without the payment of any toll.

The commissioners were met this morning by Frank Alderman and Perry Randall with reference to the Maysville road, and it is thought that an agreement for the purchase of this road will be effected this week.

CHEEKIEST ON RECORD

Were the Burglars Who Visited M. Alexander's Residence.

They Steal the Lace Curtains From the Windows and Prepare to Take More—Another House Robbed.

Burglars entered the residence of M. Alexander, manager of the J. L. Proctor shoe store, No. 190 West Berry street, last night and packed up a great quantity of things which they intended to carry away, but they were frightened off before they could succeed. The only articles missed were two pairs of fine lace curtains which the thieves took from the windows. They left the curtain poles. The robbery occurred at about 3:30 this morning

ANOTHER ROBBERY.

Saturday evening, while Mr. and Mrs. Emil W. Urbahns, of No. 68 West Jefferson street, were down town, thieves entered their residence between 7 and 8 o'clock and ransacked the place. Some silverware and a very fine pair of pearl mounted opera glasses were stolen, together with a considerable sum of money, which Mrs. Urbahns had secreted in a vase. The work was evidently done by somebody who watched the folks leave home in the evening.

PLENTY OF POTATOES.

The Tubers Do Not Pay for the Digging.

Other Crops Are Not so Beneficial—Apples Injured by the Drought of September.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Reports to the agricultural department show a decline in the condition of all the principal crops, except oats, rye and barley. The detailed summary, made public today, shows a widespread reduction in the condition of potatoes, due largely to drought. Complaints of potato rot come from the northern and more southern of the New England states, New York, several of the states adjoining the great lakes and Missouri and Kansas. The losses from leaf blight and insects appear to have been exceptionally light. The most serious complaint of the potato grower this year is the low price of the product, particularly in the northwest. The report from the department's agent for Wisconsin and Minnesota represents that in the latter state the tubers "do not pay for digging." He states that the yield is enormous.

Sweet Potatoes—Sweet potatoes have suffered quite seriously from lack of rain and their condition has been materially reduced in many states. In seven it has fallen from ten to twenty-two points.

Tobacco—The condition of tobacco declined over two points. In Ohio, where the condition is lowest, something over a half crop is expected, and the same may be said of Maryland and Virginia. The crops of Massachusetts and Connecticut are excellent. Conditions in New York, Pennsylvania and Kentucky approximate the average for the country. Drought and frosts of the last of September are the causes of lowered condition.

Rice—General average condition 9.3 a decline of 4 points, due principally to drought.

Hops—The product of hops is returned at 80.9 per cent of a full crop. The quality is generally very good, except in Washington, where the louse and mold have done material damage.

Sugar Cane—There is a very general falling off in condition due to drought. The effect of the severe winter is seen in stubble cane fields. The prospective crop is much under that of 1894.

Sorghum—This crop seems to have suffered little, but in Virginia low conditions east of the Blue Ridge reduced the general average to 80.

Apples—The continued drought and the hot weather and high winds of September, causing premature ripening and dropping, have resulted in a loss of over two points in the average condition of apples. The greatest losses occurred in the central west, where the crop was abundant. It is thought both the eating and keeping quality of the fruit has been much impaired, and in many sections a tendency to rot is already noted. The average condition now stands at 70.6.

The general conviction in the British cereal trade that the wheat harvest of the world for 1895 is about 100,000,000 bushels less than that of 1894 is announced in the report of the European agent of the agricultural department for October. The report adds: "It is known, however, that a greatly reduced quantity is being fed to stock, leaving about the same quantity for human beings."

The estimates of this season's wheat crop in the united kingdom vary from twenty-three to twenty-seven bushels an acre. Both in Great Britain and on the continent the wheat was harvested in such favorable condition as to assure a high per centage of flour. Reports from other countries are:

France—The official estimates for 1895 are: Wheat, 337,500,000 bushels; rye and maslin, 81,360,000 bushels; barley, 80,900,000 bushels; oats, 253,000,000 bushels.

All fodder crops are suffering from protracted drought.

Germany—The wheat crop is estimated at 104,000,000 bushels; a reduction from last year of nearly 7,000,000. The potato crop is believed to be over the average. As England has nearly an average crop of very high quality the market there is glutted and prices are as low as $10 a ton. These conditions are worth noting, in view of our large crop this year. It is unlikely that we shall be able to dispose of any of our surplus in Europe.

Italy—The wheat crop is officially estimated at 130,200,000 bushels, against 118,400,000 bushels last year. The barley crop is officially estimated at 7,000,000 bushels. That of last year, an unusually heavy crop, measured 8,000,000 bushels. A poor medium corn crop is expected.

Spain—The wheat crop is officially reported at 92,000,000 bushels, against 105,600,000 bushels last year. It is not a prime crop.

Bulgaria—The continued and persistent drought is reported to have done great injury to the corn crop, which in some districts is said to have been totally destroyed.

Hungary—Corn crop irregular, but satisfactory.

Roumania—The wheat crop is exceptionally abundant.

Greece—The wheat crop is unexpectedly short. A decrease of 30 per cent is expected.

Russia—An average wheat crop is expected. The rye crop is fine and heavy.

Strong Drink Causes Suicide.

WABASH, Ind., Oct. 14.—Warren Smith, son of Dr. A. J. Smith, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, shot himself with suicidal intent last night, and now lies at the point of death, with no hope of recovery. The wound was inflicted in the head with a revolver during a period of mental depression resulting from overindulgence in drink. Smith is thirty-seven years of age and has a fine reputation as an artist. He will not survive the night.

A CHICAGO MYSTERY.

Mrs. Annie Walker Mysteriously Wounded on a Train.

Is Lying in a Boarding House, Where She Was Taken by a Man Named Elliott.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Annie Walker was still unconscious this afternoon at the boarding house of Mrs. Tracey, where she was taken last Thursday morning by a man named Elliott. Her ailment is puzzling the physicians who are attending her and they are unable to determine as to whether she is suffering from the effect of some drug or from a blow. Mrs. Walker was brought to Mrs. Tracey's home at 9 o'clock Thursday morning in a carriage. She was unconscious and was carried into the room by a man named Elliott who is said has been an attendant in an insane asylum in Canada for fifteen years. Since then he has not been seen or heard from. Chief of Police Badenoch appeared at the Tracy house today and inquired into all of the particulars regarding the unconscious woman. He said her friends in Guelph, Canada, had been communicated with and that he had received a telegram from a sister stating that Mrs. Walker was insane. He also learned that she was unconscious when she left the train Thursday morning. The police are looking for Elliott.

DEADLY TRICHINÆ.

They Infest the Ham Served at a Wedding Feast.

Seven of the Guests Who Partook of a [illegible] Ham Die in Terrible Agony.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—It was announced today that it has been determined upon the strictest medical authority that seven of the victims of the Sabula, Iowa, poisoning horror died and some are still suffering from the deadly trichinæ infection. Dr. E. R. LeCount, of Rush Medical college, has prepared specimens from the portion of the intestines sent to Prof. Haines, of Rush Medical college, for examination and has made a careful diagnosis of the causes which led to the seven deaths of the guests at the wedding of John W. Taplin and Anna Gage, September 11. Dr. LeCount's decision in the matter as to the cause of the deaths and infection, which was at first thought to be a wholesale poisoning, settles beyond a doubt that the ham, hastily cooked for the wedding supper, caused all the suffering.

A LONG DROUGHT.

Pittsburg Suffers for Want of Rain.

The Monongahela River Lower Than Ever Before and the Industrial Establishments Short of Power.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 14.—The long drought in this section continues. There was some rain on Saturday, but it was so light that it gave no relief. The present extremely low water in the river is causing a vast amount of damage to the industrial establishments the Monongahela river. At the Edgar Thomson steel works, at Braddock, the Carnegie Steel company has been damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars in a peculiar manner. The same condition prevails at the Homestead, Southside and Middlepoint plants. The chemists at the Edgar Thomson plant on Saturday analyzed the water of the river. They found fifteen grains of sulphuric acid in a gallon of water. Turtle creek was also analyzed and found to contain three times as much, or enough, to kill any animal that drinks it. The steel companies, to prevent corrosion of the boilers this week, began to put soda in the reservoir and pipes. This neutralizes the acid but has a tendency to clog up the pipes, flues, etc. The Monongahela water is used by all the people of the large boroughs up the valley, and serious results are feared.

Liquor Dealers Meet.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The annual convention of the National Retail Liquor Dealers' association of the United States began here today. About twenty-eight states are represented by delegates. LOW PRICES

Cause Northwestern Farmers to Hold Their Wheat Back,

And Market Their Coarse Grain Instead—Wheat Receipts Below That of Last Year.

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 14.—There is no doubt that northwestern farmers are holding back their wheat on account of the low prices prevailing and marketing their coarse grain instead. For several days past the receipts of wheat in this market have fallen below those of last year. Receivers say that offerings are daily growing lighter, and daily sales here support the statement. On the other hand there has been a more than corresponding increase in coarse grains, though of of course the daily reports of car inspection do not show as large a total for all grain receipts. During the first eleven days of the month, the receipts of flax were equal to nearly two-thirds the total amount received during the full month of September. The quantity received during September was 810,662 bushels, which was more than came here during the entire last crop year, while for the first eleven days of October the receipts were 527,872. The same proportion prevails with regard to all coarse grains except rye. The receipts of oats for eleven days of October have been 56,690 bushels as compared with 81,215 bushels during the entire month of September. Barley receipts during October thus far have been 356,253 bushels, while the total for the month of September was only 310,777 bushels. Of course it is not reasonable to fear that the wheat movement will continue relatively small for any length of time. Farmers who are averse to selling their wheat for ruling price and have coarse grain to sell, will send the latter to market now and hold the wheat for the reason that the coarse grains command relatively much higher values in this market than wheat. There is the further reason that flax cannot be held in the stack as wheat can with safety from damage by the elements. Grain men believe that the heavy movement of coarse grains will be practically over before the fifteenth of next month, and the early closing of navigation is likely to spur shippers on to make inducements for a larger movement of wheat during the first half of November if the market should demand it, which is entirely likely.

NO CRIME INTENDED,

And the Morris Park Races Will be Permitted.

Judge Ingraham Settles the Matter by Legal Process in a Test Case for That Purpose.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Judge Ingraham, in oyer and terminer, today declared that no crime was contemplated by the Morris Park races, which open tomorrow. The matter was brought up as a test case, which was agreed to on Saturday in a conference between the police commissioners, the district attorney and the State Racing and the West Chester Racing associations. District Attorney Fellows had advised the police commissioners that in his opinion the racing at Morris park would not be illegal or at least that no arrests should be made before a hearing on the subject had been had from a higher court than had heretofore decided upon it. This was in view of the fact that Judge Bischoff, in this city, and Judge Gaynor, in Brooklyn, had rendered opposing opinions on the constitutionality of the Perry-Gray racing law.

GEMS WORTH $7,000 STOLEN.

Mrs. Peter McCourt, a Bride, Mourns the Loss of Her Diamonds.

DENVER, COLO., Oct. 14.—Mrs. Peter McCourt is deploring the loss of $7,000 worth of diamonds, including many of her most valuable wedding presents. Since returning from their honeymoon trip that followed the wedding at Springfield, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. McCourt have been stopping at the Albany hotel. Last week they engaged quarters in a fashionable district at Sixteenth and Humboldt streets, and Saturday took possession. The family had become comfortably installed in their new residence when they sat down to dinner at 6 o'clock. On returning to their room Mrs. McCourt found the gems were gone. They had been taken from a dresser case.

Four Deaths.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 14.—D. J. Baldwin, of Youngsville, Pa., a victim of last night's west end trolley car accident, died at the homeopathic hospital at 4 o'clock this morning. This makes four deaths so far and several others are in a critical condition. The accident was caused by a brake chain and the fact that the trolley left the wire. The motorman attempted to stop the runaway car by reversing the current, but there was no current. The conductor and motorman both went down with the passengers and were badly injured.

Fatally Injured.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—A. Page Brown, one of the leading architects of the Pacific coast, is not expected to live as the result of injuries received in a runaway accident last week. Mr. Brown was driving an ex-hurdle racer called the Nipper, on a country road, when the animal ran away and plunged down a steep bank. Mr. Brown had both legs, one arm, his collar bone and three ribs broken. His face was frightfully gashed and his skull fractured. It is not known whether there are any internal injuries, but his friends fear he cannot survive his terrible external wounds.

IN SESSION AGAIN.

Supreme Court Resumes Business After Long Idleness.

Attorney General Harmon is Introduced by His Predecessor, Secretary Olney.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—After a recess covering about four and a half months, the United States supreme court reconvened at noon today, with all the members of the court present. The only vacant seat on the bench was that caused by the death of Justice Jackson. The proceedings of the day were brief, consisting only of the hearing of unimportant motions, the admission of a half dozen attorneys to the bar and the introduction of Attorney General Harmon to the court by his predecessor, Secretary Olney. Chief Justice Fuller announced the death of Justices Jackson and Strong, the latter retired, simply saying that the court was saddened by these events. The chief justice also referred to the custom on the part of the court of making a formal call upon the president at the beginning of the term, but said the call would be foregone on account of the absence of the chief executive from the city. Acknowledging the introduction of the new attorney general as made by Secretary Olney, Chief Justice Fuller said: "The court parts with the retiring attorney general with regret and welcomes his successor." A number of cases were dismissed either by stipulation or on motion of appelants and plaintiffs in error. The court then adjourned until tomorrow when it will meet to hear motions already assigned for that day.

GIVE WORSHIP TO GOD.

Sermon by Rev. Father Delaney at St. Patrick's Church.

At high mass at St. Patrick's Catholic church yesterday morning the sermon was preached by Rev. Father J. F. Delaney, who took for his text the kingdom that was established by God Himself. The central thought in the discourse was the fact that there are people who are so engrossed with the affairs of the world that they cannot spare a moment for the worship of Almighty God, even on Sunday.

Father Delaney said that God breathed into space and the earth was formed with all its beauty and splendor. Then He made man and imprinted His own image upon the soul of man that he might be as beautiful as God Himself. But the power of sin took hold of man and he fell. History tells us that during the next four thousand years, from the time of man's fall in the Garden of Paradise to the time when Jesus Christ came upon earth to establish God's kingdom, the church, none of man's undertakings were successful, because God was not with them.

Kingdoms and empires rose, tottered and fell and evil held sway over all. The power of Satan was supreme. God resolved then to send upon earth a Redeemer who should be human in form but Divine in being. Men's hearts could be reached in no other way. Jesus Christ, God's only begotten son, came upon earth and gave up His life that mankind might be redeemed from sin. Thus God's kingdom, the church, was established, and the title deeds to that kingdom were written with the blood of Christ; and this kingdom has been maintained through all these nineteen hundred years by suffering, by agony and by blood. Martyrs have given up their lives and confessors have suffered and endured untold agony for the kingdom of God. Yet, there are people everywhere who now have no time to worship God who has maintained and built up His kingdom on earth for their benefit. They are too busy with the affairs of life to take time to thank God that the world is not now the sinful world that it once was. The census tells us that in our own country there are thirty millions of people who are members of no church, who have no religion, who are strangers to Almighty God. Thirty millions of people who have not the happiness of faith. There is no other blessing so great as the blessing of faith. The world may furnish that which will amuse, that which will exhilarate and momentarily satisfy the desires of man, but the blessing of a profound faith in the one infinite blessing because it springs from God Himself. My dear Christian people, lay aside your earthly joys for a time. Meditate for one hour and you will find your conscience rebelling against your ways. You will then realize the happiness of faith and more fully appreciate the kingdom which God has established here upon earth for you and all mankind.

Assaulted His Father-in-Law.

EAGLE, Ind., Oct. 14.—Calvin McGill, a respected farmer, aged seventy-one years, living one mile from this place, was assaulted while at the breakfast table yesterday morning by his son-in-law, Austin Everhart, and dangerously injured. Everhart struck Mr. McGill with a castor and then with a chair. The old man's life is despaired of. The crime was the outgrowth of previous trouble.

Drowned.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 14.—Captain James Ward, owner of the schooner Virginia, whose brother resides at 427 Oak street, Chicago, was found drowned in the Mississippi at the head of Olive street yesterday evening.

TONS OF MOLTEN LEAD

Poured on a Score of Men While at Work.

Terrible Accident in a Pittsburg Mill—Ten Men Terribly Burned, Some Fatally.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 14.—Two converters at the Frankstown mill of Jones & Laughlin's overturned at 3:40 o'clock this morning and sixteen tons of molten metal poured into the pit below, where a score or more men were at work. One man was fatally burned, three dangerously and four others sustained serious injuries.

The names are: Squire Watson, widower, terribly burned about the head and body, will die; John B. Burr, Wm. Edwards, Chas. Freeborn, Wm. C. Faulkner, Thomas W. Faulkner, Frank Kerling, Samuel Lowe.

The injured were removed to a hospital where everything possible was done to alleviate their suffering. The physicians say Watson will die, and that the chances of recovery are against Burr, Edwards and Freeborn.

The burns of the others are painful but not dangerous. The responsibility for the accident has not yet been placed, but it is believed to have been unavoidable. The damage to the mill was not very heavy.

The accident occurred while the men were in the act of raising converter No. 1, which contained over eight tons of molten metal. It is raised by compressed air power. Samuel Love and John Tunney were working at it, and before they got it raised the men working at converter No. 2 started to raise it also. The metal ran out of converter No. 1, and the men became so excited over the possibility of an explosion that they let go of the compressed air machinery and allowed the converter to drop. They came down with a crash and threw the metal in every direction and enveloped nearly all the men employed in that portion of the mill.

WITH SOFT GLOVES.

Corbett and Fitz to Box a Limited Number of Rounds.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 14.—The big fight will take place at Hot Springs October 31. Under a new arrangement of the articles of agreement of the Florida Athletic association the bout between Corbett and Fitzsimmons is assured. There will be no violation of the law and no interference on the part of the authorities is expected. The latter have taken a very decided stand from the beginning on the side of law, and will permit the contest only upon satisfactory assurance that there will be no infringement of the statutes.

In order to comply with the laws of Arkansas the articles of agreement have been changed from a finish contest to a limited number of rounds, the referee being vested with full power to stop the contest whenever, in his opinion, it becomes brutal. The contestants are to box with soft gloves. The citizens of Hot Springs are deeply interested in the event and the club officials are satisfied that they are complying strictly with the law. The best legal talent in the city has been consulted and fully agrees that it will be complied with in spirit and in letter.

ONLY IN IMAGINATION.

Big Antrim Estate a Myth Created by Unscrupulous Lawyers.

ANDERSON, Ind., Oct. 14.—The Antrim heirs of Indiana, who have hired attorneys to go to Ireland to lay claim to the great estate said to be held in chancery, have received a letter from an English solicitor saying that for a few shillings it can be ascertained that there never was £15,000,000 at any time in the Antrim family or one one-hundredth part of that sum. He says a set of lawyers have been practicing the dodge of making Americans believe they have large estates awaiting them to such an extent that the English government now requires a report every three years setting forth all the funds in chancery amounting to more than $250. The last report showed that there were two estates now on hand amounting to more than $75,000 and neither of these has anything to do with the Antrim estate.

SALOONS OBSERVE THE LAW.

New Administration in Indianapolis Sees a Quiet Sunday.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 14.—Considerable interest was manifested yesterday in the attitude that the saloonkeepers would sustain toward the law, owing to the fact that this was the initial Sunday of the new administration. Under the orders of the board of public safety the police were as vigilant as at any time during the last two years, and no trouble whatever was reported. The saloons were closed and no violation or attempts at violation of the law occurred.

NO SUNDAY SHOW.

Minstrel Cleveland Arrested for Breaking the Law.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 14.—The entertainment of W. S. Cleveland's minstrels at the Grand Opera house was brought to a sudden termination last evening by the arrest of Mr. Cleveland for violating the Sunday law. This was the first attempt to give Sunday theatricals here for two years.

START ALL THE FACTORIES.

Plate Glass Trust Orders Idle Plants to Resume Operations.

KOKOMO, Ind., Oct. 14.—Superintendent Elliott, of the plate glass factory here, has been ordered east by the trust, to start the idle plants at Charleroi and Duquesne, Pa. All the plate glass factories in the United States then will be in operation.

FATALLY SHOT.

Frightful Accident That Happened to Otto Meyer.

Tried to Knock an Apple With His Gun and Receives a Load of Shot in His Abdomen.

As the result of the accidental discharge of a shotgun Sunday, Otto Meyer, of No. 519 East Lewis street, is likely to lose his life.

Meyer and Harry Byerly went into the country Sunday morning for a hunt. While they were passing through an orchard about three miles north of Maples, and thirteen miles from this city, Meyer saw an apple on a limb that he wanted. He was carrying his shotgun over his shoulder, with the muzzle in front. He reached up to knock the apple with the butt end of the gun, and in doing so the hammer encountered a limb and one barrel of the gun was discharged.

The load of No. 6 shot entered his abdomen and so frightfully wounded him that there are no hopes for his recovery.

Dr. McCausland, of this city, and Dr. Myers, of Maples, attended him. The wounded man is nineteen years of age and the main support of his widowed mother. He has been employed by the Fort Wayne Furniture company. After his injury he was taken to the house on the farm upon which it occurred, where he will be cared for until this evening, when, if he can withstand the hardships of the trip, he will be brought to the city.

Meyer is also a nephew of Otto Herbst, of the Hamilton National bank.

INTO A CAR.

Racers on Wells Street Strike a Circumstance.

The Car Damaged But the Horse Escaped Injury—A Sprained Ankle—Thought He Was Shot.

A street car on Wells street Saturday night encountered an accident that sent it to the shops for repairs. Two fellows driving single rigs, were racing on the street and driving toward the car. One was on the track, and although the motorman stopped the car the foolhardy driver kept on coming and ran into the front. The horse struck the car with such terrific force that it bent the heavy iron dash on the platform double. So far as known, neither the horse, buggy or driver were injured. The driver was not known.

STRAINED ANKLE.

Mrs. S. T. Hanna is suffering from a sprained ankle, the result of a slip of her foot as she was descending a stairway.

THOUGHT HE WAS SHOT.

Charles Wybourn, of New Haven, was in the city Saturday. A pistol in his pocket was accidentally discharged and the young man screamed and yelled, believing he was shot. Dr. Schroeder was called to attend him and found that he wasn't injured at all. He was simply scared.

Re-elected Conference Secretary of the Women's Missionary Society.

At the general conference of the officers and secretaries of the northwestern branch of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church, which was held last week at Eau Claire, Wis., Mrs. L. R. Hartman, of this city, was re-elected secretary of the North Indiana conference. Mrs. Hartman has filled this office acceptably during the last term and her re-election to it was a deserved compliment. Her duties will require her to make occasional trips over this conference to look after the affairs of the societies in the different cities and towns. She leaves tomorrow morning for McCordsville and Elwood and will visit other towns, returning home Saturday. At each of these places district meetings will be held. On Thursday and Friday of next week a district meeting will be held in this city and lady speakers of prominence will be in attendance.

BANK FAILURE.

The State Bank of Fort Scott Closes Its Doors.

FORT SCOTT, Kas., Oct. 14.—A sensation was created today when Vice President J. J. Stewart, of the State bank, of this city, posted the following notice at the opening hour:

"This bank is closed, subject to the order of the state bank commissioner. Depositors will be paid in full. The failure to open is caused by the defalcation of the cashier. [Signed] J. J. Stewart, vice-president."

A large crowd of excited depositors gathered around the bank door and discussed the situation. The cashier, J. R. Colean, has had the utmost confidence of all. He has been cashier since the bank was organized in 1883. Last Wednesday he left town, telling a reporter he was going to his old home in Jerseyville, Ill., where his wife is visiting.

FAILURE AT ALTOONA.

Frank M. Morrow Fails to Meet His Bills.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., Oct. 14.—Executions amounting to $35,000 were issued here this morning by the H. B. Claflin company, of New York, and other creditors against Frank M. Morrow, the owner of a large merchandise store in Altoona.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Godley, on Brackenridge street—a girl.

ARE THEY MURDERERS?

Four Men Charged With Killing Postmaster Singer.

They Are James Cunningham, Charles Yetter, William Thompson and John Snurr—All in Jail.

It may be that the murder of George Singer, the aged postmaster at Dunfee, on the 16th day of September, will yet be cleared up and the murderers brought to justice.

Four men are now under arrest charged with the fearful crime. They are James Cunningham, Charles Yetter, William Thompson and John Snurr, all residents of Dunfee and vicinity.

It will be remembered by readers of THE SENTINEL that the murder of old man Singer was one of the most brutal that could possibly be conceived. Singer conducted a little store and was postmaster of Dunfee, a hamlet ten miles west of this city. On the morning mentioned above he was found murdered in bed in his room above the store, where he slept alone. During the night somebody had placed a ladder against the front of the building, climbed into the room through a window, robbed the old man, tied his hands and feet securely and then beat him to death with a hickory club that had been prepared for the purpose and which was found in bed with the corpse.

Of course, the murder created the most intense excitement in the neighborhood. A great crowd collected and each one had a suspicion to express as to who was the murderer.

A great many suspected Charles Yetter, a young man whose home is about three-quarters of a mile from Dunfee. Yetter had robbed Singer and the post office last winter and served six months in prison at Indianapolis for it. He is said to have expressed his determination to get even with Singer for sending him up.

James Cunningham, a young man who lives directly across the street from Singer's store was also suspected. Cunningham told a SENTINEL reporter on the morning of the murder that he and Chancey Romick were the last persons in Singer's store the night before when the old man counted his money, $16, and retired. Cunningham was also the first person to enter the building and discover the dead body the next morning.

Thompson was suspected of being connected with the murder because of several circumstances that have not yet been explained away. Thompson has a wife and five children and is employed on the Nickel Plate section.

Snurr also works on the section and boards with Thompson. A revolver was found in Snurr's clothing which, if it proves to be the one stolen from Singer, will seriously connect him with the deed.

Since the time of the murder Cunningham has spent much time in this city. He has been lavish with his money in saloons and with disreputable women and has gambled. Steadily a web of evidence was woven around him until it was decided to place him under arrest.

Saturday Deputy Prosecutor I. W. Leonard, of Columbia City, came to Fort Wayne with a warrant, and at about 6 o'clock in the evening Police Capt. Borgman placed Cunningham under arrest in a saloon on Harrison street, and locked him up in the police station.

Later Saturday night Superintendent Liggett, Capt. Borgman, Sergeant Dasler, Officers Knock, Coling and Dixon drove to Dunfee and placed Yetter and Thompson under arrest, landing them in the police station at 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

Sunday morning officers went to Dunfee and arrested Snurr and brought him in.

It has been stated that Cunningham made a confession to Capt. Borgman Saturday night, but Cunningham denies this. He said Sunday that he had made a confession to nobody and that he had nothing to confess. Neither Capt. Borgman nor Deputy Prosecutor Leonard will affirm nor deny the report.

A party, who seems in a position to know, says that Cunningham made the confession to a dissolute companion who had been placed in contact with him by the police for the purpose of securing information.

The confession alleged to have been made by Cunningham to Captain Borgman, and which he absolutely denies, is about as follows: That Cunningham, Yetter and Thompson did the deed; that Thompson held the ladder and the other two entered the room; that Yetter stumbled over a chair and woke Singer up; that they pounced upon him and bound and gagged him and secured $400, which was hidden in a trunk; that they were afraid he would tell on them and that they decided to kill him; that Cunningham pounded Singer to death with the hickory billet; that they then returned to their homes.

Cunningham was confined in the county jail while the other three were kept in the police station. Nobody has been permitted to talk with either of them. Sunday Cunningham's father was in the city but was denied the privilege of seeing his son.

It is the intention of the prosecutor to delay a preliminary hearing as long as possible for the purpose of obtaining all possible evidence. The men will be tried at Columbia City, the murder having been committed just across the line in Whitley county.

It is said that the police will receive a reward of $250, which was offered by the people of Dunfee.

TOLL GATES COME DOWN

The Leo Gravel Road Purchased by the County,

And the Toll Gates Are Taken Down—News as Found in the Different Courts of the City.

The county commissioners this morning completed the purchase of the Leo gravel road, paying the company $7,585 for the seven miles of road owned by them. They gave county orders due in six and eighteen months, with 6 per cent. interest, and these were cashed at par by the Hamilton bank. Immediately upon the completion of the purchase the toll gates were taken down and the teams are now driving over the road without the payment of any toll.

The commissioners were met this morning by Frank Alderman and Perry Randall with reference to the Maysville road and it is thought that an agreement for the purchase of this road will be effected this week.

COURT NEWS.

The will of Mary McLane, of Lafayette township, has been filed for probate. The daughter, Nellie C., becomes the recipient of all real and personal property belonging to the deceased.

The county commissioners have let a contract to Henry Treir, for the construction of a small bridge in Maumee township. Robert Miller was awarded the contract for building approaches to bridges.

The case of Braastrator vs. Ellison was decided at Bluffton in favor of the plaintiff, after the jury had been out fifty-three hours. The controversy was about a piece of land on the line of the Little River ditch. Judge Lowry and W. P. Breen were attorneys for Mr. Braastrator.

CHEEKIEST ON RECORD

Were the Burglars Who Visited M. Alexander's Residence.

They Steal the Lace Curtains From the Windows and Prepare to Take More—Another House Robbed.

Burglars entered the residence of M. Alexander, manager of the J. L. Proctor shoe store, No. 190 West Berry street, last night and packed up a great quantity of things which they intended to carry away, but they were frightened off before they could succeed. The only articles missed were two pairs of fine lace curtains which the thieves took from the windows. They left the curtain poles. The robbery occurred at about 3:30 this morning.

ANOTHER ROBBERY.

Saturday evening, while Mr. and Mrs. Emil W. Urbahns, of No. 68 West Jefferson street, were down town, thieves entered their residence between 7 and 9 o'clock and ransacked the place. Some silverware and a very fine pair of pearl mounted opera glasses were stolen, together with a considerable sum of money, which Mrs. Urbahns had secreted in a vase. The work was evidently done by somebody who watched the folks leave home in the evening.

KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN.

During this week you should keep your eyes on your houses and your hands on your pocketbooks. There are a lot of tough looking people in the city.

TORNSING.

Dora, the seven-year-old daughter of Henry Tornsing, No. 59 Canal street, died yesterday from diphtheria. The funeral was held in private this afternoon.

"HELP!"

A WOMAN'S DESPAIRING CRY.

It Is Heard. A Prominent Actress Escapes Great Danger.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

How startling is a woman's cry for help!

"What can I do? Where shall I go?" She knows not. This cry goes out today from every city, town, and hamlet in this country.

It comes from women who are suffering tortures of body and mind from some form of female complaint. Many, through natural modesty, do not consult physicians, for many dread their examinations. They know not where to seek for help.

This alarming condition of things is simply wrong. The peculiar ailments of women are curable, and in most cases very speedily. Lydia E. Pinkham's genius and liberality have given to every woman a sure and consistent means of relief.

No woman should suffer when she can obtain free advice. She can state her case fully to Mrs. Pinkham, woman to woman, without reserve, and the answer will come from one of her own sex. Be one of the vast army of women who write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and preserve your health. "Only a woman can understand a woman's ills."

A prominent actress, in a letter to Mrs. Pinkham, says:—

". . . You cannot imagine the fearful condition I was in when I first wrote to you. I was simply of no use to myself or any one else. I had worked hard, and my nervous system was shattered from womb trouble and travelling constantly. I ran the gauntlet of doctors' theories, till my health and money were rapidly vanishing. . . . I'm all right now, and am gaining flesh daily. I follow your advice faithfully in everything. Thank you ten thousand times for what your knowledge and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have done for me."

DECORATE your business buildings and residences.

THE presidential boom of Senator Allison has been launched.

THE success of our centennial celebration all depends upon the weather now.

IN 1869 there were in London only 500 miles of underground wires, whereas there are now 13,000 miles. That is 13,000 miles less than there are in Fort Wayne.

AND now it is given out that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight is only to be a glove contest for "scientific points." Will the governor of Arkansas allow himself to be fooled with such talk?

THE street car company will have its hands full of business this week, but it is well equipped with cars and men and will no doubt handle the big crowds in attendance at the centennial in a satisfactory manner.

COL. R. S. ROBERTSON will deliver the centennial historical address. No one is better qualified. It will be a production rich in historical details and merit. THE SENTINEL will contain the speech in full Thursday evening.

THE centennial celebration is an event in which no political or religious lines are drawn. We can all unite in rejoicing over the fact that we are one hundred years old and that our city is one of the best to live in that there is in the state.

THE closing decade of the century will be remembered as a period of municipal regeneration. Many a city in these United States has met with a change of heart recently, and the country will be all the better for the next decade because of this.

THE railroad column of THE SENTINEL always contains a large amount of interesting local reading matter and those of our subscribers who fail to look over them each day miss much of the city news. Fort Wayne has thousands of men who are employed in the railroad shops and manufacturing establishments, and THE SENTINEL is the only paper in the city which has a department devoted exclusively to the news of this character. It has proven an interesting and successful feature, and we are glad to know that it has met with popular favor among our workingmen.

AND now comes Governor McKinley and says that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight cannot take place at Put-in-Bay or any other place under Ohio's jurisdiction. All the governors are taking a strong stand against these brutal contests since Governor Matthews suppressed them at Roby.

COMMITTED in Whitley county, as was the murder of Postmaster Singer, at Dunfee, it is a credit to the Fort Wayne officers that they should have been the means of unraveling this mysterious crime by ferreting out the guilty parties. The arrest of the murderers is a great feather in the caps of our officers.

MAYOR TAGGART, of Indianapolis, has appointed Capt. J. B. Curtis as his city attorney. Captain Curtis was prominent as one of the officers in attendance at the military encampment in this city a few years ago. He is a leader in democratic politics at the state capital, and was speaker at the Indiana house two years ago.

OUR city was never decorated more handsomely than it will be this week for the centennial celebration. Already decorations can be seen on every hand and the city presents a gala appearance. Let everybody join in decorating their residences and business buildings and make the streets of our city grand in their displays of bright colors.

FIGURES which have been prepared by Secretary Bicknell of the state board of health show an alarming increase in the number of feeble-minded inmates of the poor asylums of the state. The number is now higher than it has ever been before. In October, 1893, the number was 827; in October, 1894, it was 886, and now it is 990.

IN accordance with a recent scheme, the government in Russia is soon to have entire control of the manufacture and sale of liquor in that country, with the avowed purpose to prevent the drunkenness and oppression fostered by the system of saloons kept by private persons. The new plan is to be put into operation gradually, being introduced in part of the country on July 1, 1896; in another part on July 1, 1897, and in the remainder on January 1, 1898.

GOVERNOR MATTHEWS will speak at the Atlanta exposition on "Cuban Independence Day," and it is understood that he will advocate the recognition by this government of Cuba as a belligerent power. He announces that he has pronounced views on the question and believes that the belligerent rights of the revolutionists should be recognized. His speech at the exposition will be in harmony with this thought and may go to the point of advocating the recognition of Cuba's independence. The governor' friends say that he believes the recognition of Cuban independence would be followed by immediate annexation and the island would thus become a part of the United States.

The Iron Trade.

It is a popular saying that as goes the iron trade so goes the prosperity of the country. If this were true, then the industries of America would be at present enjoying one of the greatest booms on record. The general course of the iron trade, both pig iron and the finished product, has been something remarkable this year.

In January, 1895, the price of iron was at its lowest ebb. It did not begin to pick up materially till March. Then the boom began. At the close of September the price was 68½ per cent higher than in January. It is not often in the history of any manufactured article that it half doubles its price in six months. In September the price increased 5½ per cent. Hundreds of fortunes have been made by iron masters and speculators in the past few months. Those who think of investing in iron at present, however, would do well to think twice before doing so. The price at the end of September was higher than it was in October, 1892, before the panic, when everything was lovely. Apparently rates cannot rise much higher. If they do, then it will pay to import iron. Indeed some slight importations both of pig and manufactured articles have already been made. The boom is at flood tide.

There must come a time before long when people will be supplied with all the iron machinery they want. Then there must come a lull. The blast furnaces of the country now in operation are considerably over 200 in number, and they are turning out 200,000 tons of pig iron a week. The Iron Age says this is more than was ever before manufactured in any country.

The American people are prouder of General Nelson A. Miles as head of the United States army than they have been of almost any man who ever filled the place, because General Miles himself is of the people, not of the West Point army aristocracy. The fact that a man who never went through West Point rose from private life, step by step, through sheer force of genius and pluck, to be the highest officer in the land will serve as an inspiration to every American boy in the ranks. This is as it should be. In the army of a republic the very highest places must be open in the line of promotion to those who earn them.

If, on the assembling of the United States congress, Cuba will show unmistakably that the patriots are maintaining a provisional government, with a duly elected president, and will send delegates to our congress respectfully asking recognition as an independent republic, as the American provisional government sent delegates and asked it of France during our Revolution, the struggling patriots will be almost certain to get that recognition. This will be especially so if yet before December they gain one or two decided victories. And with the United States on her side who will be against the republic of Cuba?

A BEAUTIFUL CITY.

Fort Wayne Will be Prettier Than Ever This Week.

Decorations Everywhere—Make Up of the Parade—Line of Bicycle Parade—Centennial Notes.

Fort Wayne never looked prettier than she will when the centennial opens tomorrow morning. Decorations of the most beautiful character are everywhere. The buildings are decked in the national and centennial colors, the grand arches are about finished and the electrical display will be of surpassing splendor. All these things will be attractions that will never be forgotten by the thousands of strangers who will be here this week, and Fort Wayne people will be prouder than ever of their city.

EXHIBITS OPEN SATURDAY.

The art loan committee hopes the people of the city will give the out-of-town visitors the first chance at seeing the exhibits. The Trentman building will be kept open next Saturday and Saturday evening for the special benefit of Fort Wayne people.

THE A. O. U. W.

At a recent meeting of the joint committee appointed by the various A. O. U. W. lodges it was decided to not only try and bring out the full membership to participate in the centennial parade, but to head the procession with a beautiful float, to be drawn by four horses and bearing the emblem of the order, together with Father Upchurch, the founder of the order, and T. D. Neal, the grand master workman of the Indiana jurisdiction. A little girl, representing the goddess of liberty, will add materially to the appearance of the turnout. Communications have been received from lodges at Auburn, Waterloo, Angola and other neighboring towns announcing their intention to be present and participate in the parade.

A grand union meeting of the lodges will be held Wednesday night in the hall occupied by Nos. 19 and 50, at which it is expected that several of the grand lodge officers will be present.

THE GRAND PARADE.

The make up of the big parade on Thursday will be as follows:

FIRST DIVISION.

Major E. L. Silver, chief marshal.

This division will be composed of the military companies, infantry, artillery, G. A. R. and the Sons of the American Revolution.

Will form on East Berry, right resting on Calhoun.

SECOND DIVISION.

Col. R. Gard, chief marshal.

Patriarchs Militant and I. O. O. F. lodges.

Will form on Clay, south of Berry.

THIRD DIVISION.

Captain J. T. Leach, chief marshal.

Mounted Red Men and lodges of Improved Order of Red Men.

Will form on Lafayette street, north of Berry.

FOURTH DIVISION.

Capt. E. B. Smith, chief marshal.

A. O. U. W. lodges and other non-uniformed secret societies.

Will form on Lafayette, south of Berry.

FIFTH DIVISION.

Major Will Peltier, chief marshal.

Uniform Rank and Knights of Pythias Lodges.

Will form on Barr, north of Berry.

SIXTH DIVISION.

Col. J. H. Rohan, chief marshal.

Catholic uniformed bodies and all non-uniformed Catholic societies.

Will form on Barr, south of Berry.

SEVENTH DIVISION.

Capt. Henry Cohen, chief marshal.

All labor organizations of the city.

Will form on Clinton, south of Berry.

EIGHTH DIVISION.

Col. P. Dickenson, chief marshal.

This division will form the industrial parade, in which business houses and manufactories of the city will be represented.

THE BICYCLE PARADE.

The only parade tomorrow will be the grand afternoon bicycle spectacular. There will be hundreds of wheelmen and wheel ladies in line.

The parade will form at 1:15 p. m., between Calhoun and Webster, on Wayne street, headed west. The ladies' division will form on Harrison, between Berry and Wayne streets.

The line of march will be as follows: Move north on Webster to Berry, west on Berry to Rockhill, south on Rockhill to Wayne, east on Wayne to Broadway, south on Broadway to DeWald, east on DeWald to Fairfield avenue, north on Fairfield to Jefferson, east on Jefferson to Lafayette, south on Lafayette to DeWald, east on DeWald to Hanna, north on Hanna to Washington, east on Washington to Harmer, to Maumee road, east on Maumee to Schick, north on Schick to Wayne, west on Wayne to Calhoun, south on Calhoun to Washington, east on Washington to Monroe, north on Monroe to Berry, west on Berry to Barr, north on Barr to Columbia, west on Columbia to Harrison, south on Harrison to Main, west on Main to Rockhill, south on Rockhill to Wayne, east on Wayne to Harrison, south on Harrison to Washington, west on Washington to Garden, countermarch east on Washington to Harrison and disband.

William Gouty, captain of the Fort Wayne Cycling club, with his organization, will be in command, assisted by the Triangle club. The ladies will select their officers at forming point.

Every person having a wheel in the city should turn out.

SCHOOLS WILL CLOSE.

The school board will order the schools closed Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The teachers and scholars have been in suspense for weeks, not knowing what action the board would take, but they can rest assured that there will be no school during the three days mentioned. The Lutherans decided to be governed in this respect by the public school board, and their schools will also be closed tomorrow night for the balance of the week.

SPECIAL POLICEMEN.

Eighteen extra policemen have been appointed for this week. They are William Jackson, Peter Collins, Charles Schofield, William Witte, Samuel Lamb, Fred Wyneken, George M. Rohlman, L. H. Young, L. H. Kirchner, Al Flinn, W. G. Miller, Ed Helmke, H. T. Hite, Adam Shaup, A. K. Makepeace, John Young, E. M. Hall and George Y. Hebbison.

CENTENNIAL NOTES.

Mossman & Yarnelle will have on exhibition the wagon wheel that took first prize at the world's fair.

Sunday afternoon the Catholic societies met at Library hall and selected a committee of five, with George Hallner as chairman, to attend all incoming trains and see that all uniformed and non-uniformed societies are received and entertained.

Captain John T. Leach, of the Odd Fellows and Red Men organizations, has appointed the following deputies for the grand parade: Second division, I. O. O. F.—Dr. Walter Langtry, John H. Payne, Charles Stapleford, John Fredericks, M. Davis, William Hahn and Fred Meyers. Third division, Red Men—F. G. Olds, mounted; John W. Aiken and C. A. Clapsaddle.

Many wonderful experiments will be performed at the electrical exhibit of the Fort Wayne Electric corporation, on the second floor of the Trentman building, on Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Several of these experiments will excel even those shown at the world's fair. Who should not be present and witness water brought to the boiling point over a cotton cloth in a few seconds? A half inch bar of steel held in the hands and instantly melted then welded together again, all in less time than it takes to tell it?

For THE SENTINEL.

CENTENNIAL HYMN.

BY [illegible]

One hundred years from God's dear hand
Are numbered in a sheaf to-day;
One circle has our city spanned,
As citizens we come to lay
A laurel wreath, undimmed by time
On Fort Wayne's centurial shrine.

One hundred years ago, the primeval hills
And forests murmured their fears
But she has stood some [illegible] and mighty scenes.
To-day we crown her city of a hundred years.

The winged years on their cycle sped.
Changes have wrought their slow and pall.
Some who once graced this pretty western town
Have since obeyed the great Commander's call.

One hundred years! God bless our town.
Bless our voices as we send the cheers;
God bless this festal day for all,
And bless our city of a hundred years.

New love and hope to old Fort Wayne.
Her battles are won, and time endears;
Let the new cycle out do the old.
And may you live a thousand years.
New York City.

F. Marion Crawford.

F. Marion Crawford has won great popularity as a novelist. He is the son of an American sculptor, Thomas Crawford, and was born in Bagni di Lucca, Italy, August 2, 1854. He was educated partly in America, at Concord, N. H., and Heidelberg, and from 1874 to 1878 studied Sanskrit at the University of Rome. In 1879 he went to India and was editor of a daily paper, the Indian Herald, at Allahabad. Returning to America in 1881, he remained until 1883, and then went to Italy, where with the exception of occasional visits to this and other countries, he has since resided, his home being near Sorrento. Mr. Crawford's writings are chiefly in the line of fiction, though he has done some work in critical philosophy and philology, and has contributed sketches of travel to periodicals. His first novel, "Mr. Isaacs," made him famous in the literary world, and his succeeding ones, which have followed one another in rapid succession, have been eagerly sought after and widely commented upon.

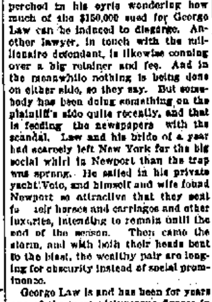
SENSATIONAL BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT IN NEW YORK.

Miss Julia May Mack and Her Mamma Would Like a Slice of Millionaire George Law's Wealth—He Was Fickle.

MANHATTAN Island, New York, is the most fertile spot in America for "wild oats." Just one little "wild oat" dropped by the wayside, and the sower, particularly if he be notoriously wealthy, may reap a peck of trouble the first year, and in the same rapidly increasing ratio for a number of years thereafter. All New York is wondering to-day how the notorious Zella Nicolaus managed to scrape acquaintance with George Gould. If what is the story behind the assault which Zella now says George made upon her. A few days ago the eccentric young millionaire, George Law, was being pilloried in the papers by a woman he had scorned; following close upon its heels came the little escapade in which poor Bob Inman lost his life. The Law case is typical in many respects. Under the court practice of the state when suit is brought for breach of promise of marriage, no bill is filed, and none need be until the lawyer for the defendant compels the plaintiff to do so. The suit has been pending unknown to the public at large since last winter. A lawyer sits perched in his eyrie wondering how much of the $150,000 sued for George Law can be induced to disgorge. Another lawyer, in touch with the millionaire defendant, is likewise conning over a big retainer and fee. And in the meanwhile nothing is being done on either side, so they say. But somebody has been doing something on the plaintiff's side quite recently, and that is feeding the newspapers with the scandal. Law and his bride of a year had scarcely left New York for the big social whirl in Newport than the trap was sprung. He sailed in his private yacht Voto, and himself and wife found Newport so attractive that they sent for their horses and carriages and other luxuries, intending to remain until the end of the season. Then came the storm, and with both their heads bent to the blast, the wealthy pair are longing for obscurity instead of social prominence.



GEORGE LAW.

George Law is and has been for years one of the most picturesque figures in New York city. He is president of the Eighth and Ninth Avenue Railroad companies, a millionaire several times over, a shrewd business man, and he has been a generous patron of pugilism. His father, the late George Law, amassed a fortune by shrewd dealings in street railroads. Young George was graduated from the Columbia college law school, but never practiced his profession. Instead, he went to work driving a car on his father's railroad, so that when his father died he was well fitted to step into his place, as president of the various railroad lines. His age is now something over 40, and he is tall, portly and jolly. He has his yacht merely for luxury, but he is very fond of horses. Ever since he has been old enough to vote he has been a faithful patron of pugilism. When the late Joe Coburn was champion of America he earned many valuable diamond rings by letting George Law knock him down to illustrate how certain blows should be delivered. He bought liquor for them galore.

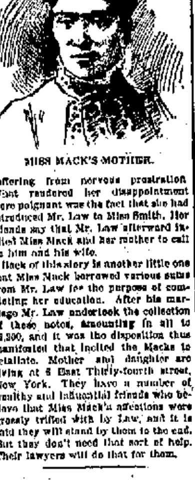
MISS JULIA MAY MACK.

One of Law's most famous exploits was in August, 1888, when he chartered a special car and took Jere Dunn, Joe Coburn, Colonel Tom Ochiltree, Captain Jim McCue and other sporting men to Saratoga, where they all spent $30,000 of Law's money bucking the "tiger." It is also said that he was fleeced out of $30,000 in some gambling room at Long Branch, in July, 1889. Throughout all his costly sporting adventures by night he has remained by day a shrewd, calculating man of business.

Miss Mack is a tall and slender girl, hardly past her twentieth year. She has large blue eyes, fair, brown hair and a delicate complexion. She is an excellent pianiste, having studied in the conservatories of Leipsic and Paris. Miss Mack's mother is well known as a literary worker. She lived at the Waldorf and lectured there two years ago in order to raise a fund for a monument to Queen Isabella, of Spain. This was at the time of the Columbian celebration. Mrs. Mack and her daughter met George Law at a dinner party early in 1893, so the story runs. The acquaintance did not at first progress very rapidly, but a business transaction gave it impetus. Miss Mack was anxious to complete her musical education. When her father died he left her some real estate worth about $6,000. She could not sell it to advantage, so she asked Mr. Law if he would advance money to her upon it. He declined to do so, but lent her money on her notes. After that he began to call on Miss Mack and her mother quite frequently at their home in Fifth avenue, and later at the Hotel Waldorf. Early in the summer of 1893 he gave a dinner on his steam yacht Voto in honor of Miss Mack, at which her mother and many other guests were present. Miss Mack and her mother spent much of that summer in the Glenada Casino, at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I. George Law's yacht was anchored off the casino two or three days each week, and he gave entertainments in Miss Mack's honor. He took the Macks, Miss Algie Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Breckel and Miss R. K. Breckel on board the Voto to Pleasure Bay, N. J., and afterward entertained them lavishly at breakfast in the Moorish room of the Hollywood hotel.

About this time the announcement was made in a newspaper that Miss Mack was engaged to be married to Mr. Law, but a Mr. Brusler, who said he had authority to speak for Mr. Law, denied the report next day. Meantime Mr. Law continued his attentions to Miss Mack, and her friends say that long before this he had told her that he loved her and asked her to be his wife. Then he asked that the wedding be postponed, saying, it is alleged, that certain interests forbade his marrying right away. Mr. Law was as devoted as ever to Miss Mack until one year ago, when he suddenly ceased calling on her. She wondered why, and wrote him letters, but got no answer.

She was utterly prostrated when she read in the newspapers of Sept. 25, 1894, a notice of the marriage of Miss Algie Smith to George Law on the preceding day at the Girard hotel in Forty-fourth street, the residence of her grandparents, Mr and Mrs. Brainbridge Smith. Miss Mack lay ill in bed for a long time, suffering from nervous prostration. What rendered her disappointment more poignant was the fact that she had introduced Mr. Law to Miss Smith. Her friends say that Mr. Law afterward invited Miss Mack and her mother to call on him and his wife.



MISS MACK'S MOTHER.

Back of this story is another little one that Miss Mack borrowed various sums from Mr. Law for the purpose of completing her education. After his marriage Mr. Law undertook the collection of these notes, amounting in all to $3,300, and it was the disposition thus manifested that incited the Macks to retaliate. Mother and daughter are living at 8 East Thirty-fourth street, New York. They have a number of wealthy and influential friends who believe that Miss Mack's affections were grossly trifled with by Law, and it is said they will stand by them to the end. But they don't need that sort of help. Their lawyers will do that for them.

A Shot Through the Brain.

A man shot through the brain, says Victor Horsley, dies, not through failure of the heart's action, but through the want of breath occasioned by the explosive effect of the bullet passing through the wet brain substance, and consequent injury to the base of the brain. The heart goes on beating, but respiration stops; indeed, the heart is stimulated, not depressed, when a bullet enters the brain, and the proper treatment of a man thus shot is the same as that resorted to in the case of drowning people—one should try to set up artificial respiration.

SMASHED THE RECORD.

Engineer Sandy Hilker Makes a Phenomenal Run.

Travels From Colehour to Fort Wayne in 134 Minutes—An Electric Tricycle—Shop Gossip.

General Manager Joseph Woods, General Superintendent Charles Watts and Division Superintendent C. D. Law formed a party of Pennsylvania railway officials which passed over the Fort Wayne branch of the system yesterday. The run from Chicago to Pittsburg was a remarkable one and on some portions of the line beat all previous fast runs. The train consisted of two Pullman cars. It left Chicago at 9:51 a m in charge of Conductor Harry Beills, hauled by engine 271 with Engineer Sandy Hilker at the throttle, and came to a stop at the station in this city at 12:35 o'clock, having traveled the 148 miles in two hours and forty-four minutes. There was some delay in getting out of Chicago and the engine did not "get down to business" until it had passed Colehour. Then it fairly flew over the rails. The seventy miles between that station and Plymouth were covered in sixty-nine minutes. At that place the train lost five minutes in taking water. Plymouth is just sixty-four and one-tenth miles from this city and that distance was traveled by the train in exactly sixty minutes, making the time consumed in traveling from Colehour to Fort Wayne, 134 miles, precisely 131 minutes, including the five minute stop for water. This beats the famous run of Engineer Jack Christie by several minutes. At this point the engines were changed, No. 70, with Engineer Harry Rogers at the throttle, taking the place of 271. The run from this city to Crestline, 131 miles, was made in 135 minutes, including a stop for water. While this run was a good one, it does not beat the one made by Herman Darnell some years ago. The train from Fort Wayne to Crestline was in charge of Conductor Lee A. Kanaga. The run from Crestline to Pittsburg, 189 miles, consumed four hours and thirty one minutes.

No. 271, whose remarkable performance is recorded above, is a class O engine with five foot drive wheels. It was built at Altoona some years ago and rebuilt and supplied with the Fort Wayne valves in this city a short time ago.

MR. HAYS' RAPID RISE.

It is stated that the salary of the general manager of the Grand Trunk lines is $32,000 per annum, while that of the Wabash is but $18,000. It was this difference in salary which induced C. M. Hays to resign the Wabash management for that of the Grand Trunk. Mr. Hays is a young man still, being only forty. He began his railway career as a clerk in the early seventies, and arose to his present rank rapidly. He became general manager of the Wabash road in 1887.

WILL BE MARRIED TOMORROW.

Tomorrow afternoon, at the home of the bride's parents, one and a half miles out on the Huntington road, will occur the marriage of Robert L. Taylor to Miss Mollie Hathaway. The groom is a machinist at the Bass works and the bride the daughter of one of our prominent farmers. The couple have arranged to go to housekeeping in the Taylor homestead, on Wayne heights, where they will be "at home" to their friends in few days.

TWO ACCIDENTS.

Late Saturday afternoon E. H. Martin, a Nickel Plate brakeman, was brought to this city suffering from injuries received at Green Springs, O. At that place his right hand was pinched in making a coupling, and so badly was the thumb crushed that Dr. J. M. Dinnen found amputation necessary.

Another unfortunate was J. H. Steinbucher, a laborer in the Bass machine shop, who had his right foot crushed by a truck wheel passing over it. Dr. A. J. Kesler, the attending surgeon, says the foot is badly injured, but amputation will not be necessary.

FORGED RECOMMENDATIONS.

A Columbus, Ohio, firm is engaged in the lucrative business of furnishing railway men, seeking employment, with letters written upon the letter-heads of any desired railroad company and stating that "the bearer has been in our employ for some time and leaves us on his own accord." It is claimed that the forgers have secured the letterheads of every railroad in the United States and are growing rich in the business.

REDUCED SHOP EXPENSES.

The railway business of the country is not evenly divided. While some through lines, notably the Pittsburg and Nickel Plate are receiving more freight than they can conveniently handle, others are comparatively idle. The latter state of affairs exists on the Chicago and Erie road, and as a consequence of decreasing traffic the shop men at Huntington and elsewhere on the line have been reduced to a nine hour day. They were working ten hours daily until last week. The shops in this city find it impossible to do the work required of them in a working day of thirteen hours

AN ELECTRIC TRICYCLE.

The latest invention in the way of a horseless carriage is an electric tricycle which will carry two or three persons at the speed of twenty miles an hour if desired. The invention was brought out by Charles H. Barrows, of Willimantic, Conn. The forward wheel, which is the motor, has one hub, two sets of spokes and two rims with solid rubber tires. Between the two sets of spokes is securely fastened a large sprocket rim carrying a sprocket chain, which engages with the very small sprocket pinion of an electric motor carried at the base of the steering spindle of the bifurcated post which straddles the driving wheel, and in which the wheel is journaled in ball bearings. The gearing has a speed reduction of fourteen to one. The current is obtained from a primary battery contained in two cabinets which are disposed one on each side of the driving wheel. This battery weighs 100 pounds and is estimated at two horse power. The carriage part of the vehicle is a light structure consisting of a simple frame work with a wide, comfortable seat and two pneumatic tired wheels hung in ball bearings. Each wheel is independently journaled, whereby all extra friction on curves is avoided. Steering is accomplished by means of a handle bar similar to the handle bar of a bicycle.

M'MANIGAL'S INJURIES NOT SERIOUS.

George McManigal's injuries are not so serious as reported and he will be on duty again in a few days. He was painfully bruised about the body and hips, but no bones were broken. It will be remembered that Mr. McManigal was struck by a switch engine shortly after the noon hour Saturday, while he was waiting for the approach of train No 20, on which he intended to ride out to the east shops, where he is employed as a clerk. The young man resides at No 10 Hoagland avenue.

BRIEF GOSSIP.

The Wabash depot was beautifully decorated today.

The Pennsylvania has given $2,600 to the Mary Packer hospital at Sunbury, Pa.

Andy J. Huber is sick and off duty. He is employed at the Pittsburg planing mill.

A. Shannon, a tinner employed in the Pittsburg shops, has returned from a visit with Chicago friends.

All the locomotives of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton are being equipped with the Janney self coupler.

The electric works sent a 70 K. W. machine and some electrical supplies to the Plankington hotel, Milwaukee, today.

Baltimore and Ohio officials will neither deny nor affirm that the company is to build a new line from Cleveland to Lodi, Ohio.

Henry Blair, engineer at the Bass machine shop, has taken a four weeks' leave of absence. Charles Damon is now running the engine.

W. T. Marks, machinist at the Pittsburg shops, is detained at home by the serious condition of his wife, who was taken ill a short time ago.

Gus Hackius, cashier at the Kerr Murray works, was presented with a son yesterday. The boy weighs twelve pounds and is the first heir.

The Pennsylvania company has placed watchmen at the street crossings in Warsaw and now runs its trains at a higher speed through that city.

It is stated that the jurisdiction of G. T. Jarvis, assistant general superintendent of the Lake Erie and Western, is to be extended over the Northern Ohio.

Peru Chronicle: "Joe Bradley, conductor on a Wabash local freight, is at Denver, Col., and will shortly be married there to a lady residing in that city."

F. J. Ruch is afflicted with stomach troubles which have confined him to his home for several days. Mr. Ruch is a steam fitter employed in the Pittsburg shops.

A. E. Collett, clerk in Master Mechanic F. W. Morse's office, is spending a few days at the St. Louis exposition. He went down there last evening, accompanied by his wife.

Master Mechanic Samuel Wess, of the Rhinesmith & Simonson factory, resumed work this morning, after an absence of a week, during which he buried one of his little girls.

Conductor George Foster and Engineer Findlay, with engine 210, took a train load of merchandise to Andrews yesterday. The run was made in fifty minutes, which is considered good.

Surveyors are engaged in laying out yards for the Pennsylvania company at Clark, Ind., and it is said when the work is finished the Chicago yards will be abandoned.

J. W. Burns, secretary of the railroad branch of the Y. M. C. A., spent Sunday in Peru. He assisted Jim Burwick, the railroad evangelist, in conducting a meeting.

The Chicago and Alton is not only withdrawing from all associations, but announces that hereafter it will make its own rate schedule instead of recognising the Chicago rate sheet as a basis of tariff

George Geerken, formerly of the Pittsburg boiler shop, has two very sick children at the home of their grandparents, corner of Montgomery and Barr streets. Mr. Geerken is now living on a farm and the children were visiting in the city when taken ill.

Col. R. G. Thompson, of the Wabash, informs The Sentinel that his company anticipates an immense travel to and from Fort Wayne this week, and has made arrangements to run specials whenever it is necessary for the proper handling of the business. The Wabash train service this week will be better than ever before.

A company to be known as the Engineering and Electric works has been organized at Lafayette, with C. P. Robertson president and general manager. The firm has secured an old car shop for its plant, which is being put into shape for the manufacture of dynamos and electrical supplies. All the stockholders are citizens of Lafayette.

Fred. Hart, Wabash fireman, was taken with rheumatism of the heart while out on his run last Friday and was driven temporarily insane by the pain. At Logansport he left his engine and ran a considerable distance before he could be stopped. He is now in the hospital in that city, and latest reports from his bedside are favorable to his recovery. Hart lives at Andrews.

A. Rost, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, was the victim of an unpleasant though not serious accident yesterday. He was fishing in the Maumee below New Haven, and to reach a deep hole beneath a bridge he contrived a swinging seat which he suspended from one of the bridge timbers. Hardly had Mr. Rost seated himself, than the ropes broke and he plunged into eight feet of very cold water. Being a good swimmer, he soon reached shore but the pleasures of the day were spoiled, and he hastened home to change his clothing.

Anthony Speigel, of the East foundry, reached into his pants pocket Saturday for an envelope containing manganese, which he tossed into a ladle of molten iron. But, instead of manganese, Speigel got hold of the envelope containing his wages, $42, and the money was not missed until some hours later. Then he thought he would open the envelope and count the money, and the discovery was made that he was out price of one month's labor. When the shopmen heard of the affair they raised a purse of $42 and presented to the unfortunate man. Manganese is used to soften castings whenever such a thing is desired.

STARVING.

In the Midst of Plenty.

That's what people with poor digestion are doing every day. They have no appetite, or if they do have an appetite and eat what they require it does them no good because the stomach does not digest it and the fermenting mass of food becomes a source of disease, of headaches, sleeplessness, languor and the thousand and one symptoms resulting from disordered digestion. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets promptly relieve and cure all forms of indigestion. They have done it in thousands of cases and will do it in yours. The reason is simple. Because they digest the food whether the stomach works or not. That's the whole secret and the only secret about Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for we tell you plainly just what they contain because we believe that every man and woman ought to know what they are putting into their stomachs.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain the freshest, purest pepsin, free from animal impurities, combined with bismuth and the most valuable vegetable essences and fruit salts, making it not only the surest cure for stomach troubles but a perfectly safe, reliable preparation. Sold everywhere by druggists at 50 Cents per package or sent direct by mail by Stuart Co. Marshall, Mich.

Morgan a Great Reader.

Considering that Senator Morgan of Alabama is said to have a wider range of encyclopaedic information than any southerner in public life since the days of Gen. Toombs, it is remarkable to learn that he never went to school but for three years. He seems to have been a youthful prodigy, for at the age of 9 he had read all the works of Virgil in the original Latin, and many of the odes of Horace. The senator is now 71 years old. His father died at 94, and might have lived longer if he had been willing to take his doctor's prescription of a little whisky to stimulate his flagging vitality.

Intended to Catch Your Eye.

Don't skip this paragraph because it is small. It is worth reading for it tells about The Pineola Balsam, a certain remedy for cough, tickling in the throat and the stopped up feeling in the upper part of the chest. A simple cough may turn into something serious if let alone. It ceases to vex you and to keep you awake o'nights when you have allayed the inflammation in your throat with Ely's Pineola Balsam. The druggists sell it for twenty-five cents.

The Bohemian's Comment.

"I owe my life to a miracle," said one of the combatants to Murger, the author of "La Vie des Bohemes." "I had left in my pocket a five-franc piece and the ball struck flat on the spot where it was."

"In your place I should have been a dead man," was Murger's reply.—Le Petit Parisien.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

FOR RUBE'S SAKE.

WORKING HOURS were over in the Great White canyon. Mary Vernon pulled down the little window of the postoffice of which she was the mistress, swept the contents of the narrow counter into a drawer, which she locked; then pinning a broad-leaved hat above the brown curls that clustered about her brow she passed out of her log cabin into the sweet evening air.

As she reached the low fence which ran before her house a hurried footstep sounded through the gathering gloom, and a man's voice said:

"Is that you, Mary, my girl? You look little more than a ghost under the shadow of those bushes."

"You've kept your promise, dearest, and come to see me," she cried, as she threw herself into the arms of her lover.

Reuben Halse kissed the red lips so frankly offered him before he spoke.

"Yes, Mary, I've kept my promise, but I've come to say good-bye."

"Good-by—good-by? You're going away? You're going to leave me—your sweetheart—your wife that is to be?"

"My dear little girl, don't cry—don't grieve. You've been my sweetheart, faithful and true, but we can never marry."

The strong man's voice broke and died into silence.

"Go on; tell me the worst," sobbed the girl in his arms.

"Listen, dear. You know that lately things have gone wrong with me. The bit of money I've saved up for our wedding in the fall was stolen, and then the cabin I'd built for you down by the Blue Pools was burned. Still, there was the farm stock and your little purse of saving left, but the drought has killed the stock and—oh, Mary, how can I tell you?"

Mary drew apart from her lover and steadied her trembling form against the garden fence.

"Some one has robbed you of the money I gave you. Oh, my poor boy—"

She stretched forth her pitying hands toward the man before her, who only bowed his head and shuffled his feet in the thick, white dust.

"Tell me, Reuben; tell me how it happened. Ah, surely, you are not thinking I shall blame you for such a misfortune?" and once more she crept to his side.

But Reuben thrust her from him.

"'Twas no misfortune! 'twas a crime. Your little savings, those few coins you've starved and scraped to keep, lie there."

RUBE CONFESSES.

He pointed with his lean, brown hand down the canyon to where, amidst a dense mass of foliage, a few lights twinkled.

Mary staggered.

"Down there? At Ffolliott's?"

"Aye, lass—at Ffolliott's! I lost all at faro last night."

For a moment no sound but the evening breeze whispered among the creepers and bushes, and the harsh note of a night bird broke the silence. Then a woman's voice, tender and low, and full of tears, murmured: "Rube, dear Rube, I forgive you."

"Don't, Mary, don't! I'd rather you would strike me."

The stars twinkled their diamond eyes on the man and girl as they said farewell. For Reuben had settled to leave the canyon that night.

"Bill Redfern, One-eyed Sammy and Joe, the Portugee, are going, too. We're all broke, and maybe will starve out there," and he waved his hand towards the wide forest land of Arizona, "as in this canyon here. Don't sob so, my girl, you'll break my heart. I'm not worth a tear from your pretty eyes, or a choke in your white throat. But, Mary, you might pray for me sometimes, and when you're married to a good chap as don't go to Ffolliott's and neglect his farm for the tables and bar, think of me—who loved you, but was not worthy to have you."

* * *

Reuben Halse and his companions had been gone from the Great White canyon for a week. Mary's cheeks, never very full of color, had grown pale and heavy, and blue lines beneath her large eyes told of sleepless nights and many tears.

Yet Paul Harding—"Beauty" Paul as he was called in the canyon—thought he had never seen Mary look so lovely, as he clattered up to the door of the postoffice one morning and asked the young postmistress if there was anything for him.

"Nothing for you to-day."

Yet Paul seemed loath to go. He pulled his long, tawny moustache, jingled his spurred boots upon the floor, and continued to stare through the pigeon-hole window at the girl, and she flitted about her usual business.

"Anything I can do for you?" she asked him presently.

"No," Paul said slowly, taking in every detail of the girl's pretty figure, clad in cotton frock of gentian blue. "But might I speak to one minute—privately?"

"You can say what you've got to say where you are."

"How different you keep your place from what a man's shanty is——"

"You live down by the Blue Pools, don't you?"

"Yes, next to Reuben Halse, till his place was burned out, and he came to my shanty. I saw Rube three days back."

"You saw Rube?" Mary clasped her hands above her heart.

"Yes. He and his chums passed through Lon Tom's ranch. I've been out there this two months past, helping him brand and count the cattle. Rube told me that you and he had parted and the reason why. He asked me to look after you a bit. You see, we've been good pals, and I'd like to do him a turn now he's gone under. You will let me look after you now and again, won't you, for Rube's sake?"

The handsome cowboy, tall and strong as a giant, clad in the picturesquely rough clothes of his calling, bent like a reed before the tiny, blue-eyed figure of the postmistress, who laid a slender white hand in his great palm and lifted her violet eyes to his dark ones.

"Surely, Paul Harding, for Rube's sake, you may look after me when I can't look after myself."

It was for Rube's sake that the following Sunday Paul dressed himself in his best, brought a little two-wheeled cart, gay with bells and bright colors, to Mary's door, and asked her to drive out with him.

The day was fair, and "Beauty" Paul amused her with stories of Rube, and when they came to an end he told her of his own home, in the heart of a green country in England.

He made her laugh with his tales of college life, and shudder with his descriptions of the campaign in Egypt, which he had gone through. Only he did not tell her how he, an English gentleman, and a gallant officer, came to be loafing and drinking and gambling away his days and his health in Great White canyon.

The next Sunday Mary shut herself within her log cabin, and neither the blue sky nor the gay cart and smartly caparisoned horse, nor "Beauty" nor himself could wheedle her out.

She would not be seen, she said sternly, with one of Ffolliott's lot. She, however, repented and forgave him on his promise to amend for her sake.

As weeks and months went by, and the green of the canon changed to red and gold, Paul found that if he was to "look after" Mary he had to give up the saloon.

And, indeed, for a space Ffolliott's knew him not, till one October morning his allowance—the money which bought his family freedom from his disgraceful presence—arrived from England.

For the next week Ffolliott's was a pandemonium, with the "Beauty" as a presiding demon.

Mary heard of it and refused to speak to or look at him. Then it was that he flung himself before her one day and prayed her to save him from that which he was powerless to save himself—from drink, and dice, and bad companions.

And she did what other good women have done before and will do again. She placed her hand in his and with her heart full of Rube Halse, she promised to marry Paul—for her soul's sake.

The eve of the marriage day arrived, and with it Paul's allowance from England. The occasion and opportunity suggested a carouse, and Paul informed the "boys" he would be standing treat at Ffolliott's that night for the last time.

Paul was full of liquor—he had drunk Mary's health with every man in the place—and he was also full of luck, for once in a way. A pile of gold lay before him on the table, and he was just proposing another round in Mary's honor, when big Bill Redfern strode in and was greeted with a shout of "Halloo, Bill; you back! What luck, pard?"

"Luck, my lads! I leave luck to fools and dead beats. I've been working, and, thank God, I've worked for something. I've put my sweat and muscle into the ground and I've struck ore! None of your dust or pockets, but a vein as broad as an ox's back, and as long as a river, and so I've come back with Rube—"

Paul looked up with a start. Here was he drunk in a gambling hell on the eve of his marriage with Mary, and Rube had come back.

"What did you say?" he muttered.

"I said Rube and I had come back. But don't let me disturb the game. Come, come, have a drink; I'm standing treat, and as to Rube, here's his health and Mary's!"

"I'm standing treat!" shouted Paul, springing up. "Have a drink with me?" And with this he flung his liquor in Bill's face and made a rush at him.

A pistol flashed, a blue puff of smoke died in the hot air, and "Beauty" Paul lay stone dead on Ffolliott's floor.

Some of them went up to the postoffice to break the news to Mary. There was a light in the window, and by it they saw Rube and her sitting talking. Quietly and with bowed heads they left the cottage and returned to Ffolliott's without fulfilling their mission.

Next day a rough-and-ready jury, having considered all the circumstances of the case, and with due appreciation of Bill Redfern's prowess as a dead shot, decided that Paul had courted on purpose a certain death, and they returned a verdict of "suicide while of unsound mind."
